About Kathy

For over 20 years, I have been providing financial advice to clients, guiding them toward a more secure financial future.

I am passionate about helping individuals and families achieve their financial and lifestyle goals with the right advice for their unique needs and objectives.

Significant life events or milestones are often a trigger for clients to think about financial planning. Starting a family, a marital breakdown, looking to buy an investment property or approaching retirement are some of the many reasons my clients have sought the help of an expert adviser.
